About coffee

Arabica or robusta

Arabica is considered a superior type of coffee compared to robusta. It grows at higher altitudes and is more demanding to grow. It has a higher sugar content and a lower amount of caffeine. It is extremely aromatic and expressive, and its characteristics depend a lot on the intensity of roasting.

Blend

Blend is obtained by mixing two or more different coffees to form a coffee with special characteristics: stronger body, more intense aromas or a specific after taste.

Organic coffee

Organic coffee – or Eco-certified coffee is coffee for the production of which no artificial fertilizers are used and which is not genetically modified.

Specialty coffee

Specialty coffee consists of premium quality beans carefully roasted to reach their maximum potential and then prepared to established standards. Grains must not have defects and must be rated 80 points or higher on a 100-point scale.

Single origin

Single origin coffees are those that grow in one narrow geographical region. Sometimes these are beans from one farm or a special selection of beans from one country, after which these coffees are named.

Learn about coffee

Caffeine

Caffeine is one of the 1500 ingredients of coffee. Its positive effect on the body is known if consumed in moderate quantities. The amount of caffeine in a coffee depends on several factors. Arabica beans contain 1.5% caffeine, almost twice less than robusta beans.

Barista

The quality of coffee that reaches the guest depends on the knowledge of the barista who prepares it. Knowledge of the coffee itself, adequate preparation and use of all appliances are the main items in the training of a professional barista. Their dedication is especially important in the preparation of specialty coffees, due to their sensitivity.

Latte art

Latte art is a method of combining coffee, milk and milk cream that results in a certain drawing on the surface of the beverage. The quality of the drawing depends on the coffee itself, the quality of the milk cream and the dexterity of the barista. In addition to the symmetry of the drawings, the contrast between coffee and milk is especially appreciated.

Coffee belt

"Coffee belt" – a belt around the equatorial zone in which there are excellent conditions for growing coffee plants within which micro-zones have formed over time, which give coffee a unique seal.

Body of the coffee

This is a term used to describe the physical characteristics of coffee – the fullness of flavor and texture that we feel in our mouths when drinking coffee. We can distinguish coffees with a lighter, medium or fuller body, intense, as well as those with such a pronounced body that they seem like oils and syrups.

Espresso

Espresso is a hot drink that is obtained by passing water under pressure through a filter with finely ground coffee, giving about 30ml of concentrated coffee on the surface of which the cream is formed. Depending on the guests' preference, there are several variants of different intensities, as well as options with or without milk.

BLUEBERRY JUICE

455 RSD

In small berries lies power. This is also evidenced by blueberry, a fruit that represents a treasure trove of vitamins and minerals, and whose tiny fruits do wonders for our heart, brain and digestion. In addition to having a small number of calories and thus getting in the way of obesity, blueberries also affect the image of our health. Numerous studies have shown that blueberries contain certain compounds that prevent the proliferation of bacteria that cause urinary infections, as well as their retention on the walls of the bladder.

Blueberry strengthens bones, improves vision, maintains concentration, strengthens the brain. Regenerates the skin and lowers elevated blood sugar. Blueberry is one of the largest natural antioxidants and contains a large amount of vitamins, minerals and oligo elements in its composition. It slows down the aging of the whole body, so without exaggeration it can be called an elixir of health and youth.

Blueberry is recommended as a dietary supplement for people suffering from malignant diseases. The anthocyanin found in blueberries, which is responsible for its blue color, protects our body in this sense by actively fighting cancer cells. Our blueberry juice is enriched with honey, which has an additional positive effect on all the listed benefits and tastes perfect.
